Course Description
International business has grown rapidly in recent decades due to technological expansion, liberalization of government policies on trade and resource movements, development of institutions needed to support and facilitate international transactions, and increased global competition. Due to these factors, foreign countries increasingly are a source of both production and sales for domestic companies. This course is designed to improve students’ understanding of the complexities presented by managing businesses in an international environment. It is a survey of the international manager’s world

I have created a set of course materials at the Harvard Business Education web site and the ETM program is covering the costs of the course pack and the course link will be available on blackboard. There are a limited number of course pack so please do not circulate the link.

If you do not already have an account on the Harvard Business Education website you will need to create one. You will have access to the course materials for 6 months.

After you register, you can get to the coursepack at any time by doing the following:
1. Visit hbsp.harvard.edu and log in.
2. Click My Coursepacks, and then click International Business Strategy (Spring 2016)

For technical assistance, please contact the Harvard Business Publishing Tech Help line at (800) 810-8858 (outside the U.S. and Canada, call 617-783-7700); or email techhelp@hbsp.harvard.edu. Our business hours are 8 am - 8 pm ET, Monday-Thursday, and 8 am - 7 pm ET on Friday.

Supplemental Course Material:
The Economist
The Financial Times
Business Week

Teaching Method

A variety of methods will be used to explain the concepts, theories and practices of international management. Lectures, class discussions, case studies, speakers, exams and written assignments will be used to stimulate student interest and facilitate the learning process.

The central goal of my teaching method is to provide opportunities for you to apply course concepts in the context of the cases and simulation; through constructive application of these concepts, you will best internalize these concepts and hopefully be able to use them long after the course is over.

Policy on academic integrity/misconduct: The Colorado School of Mines affirms the principle that all individuals associated with the Mines academic community have a responsibility for establishing, maintaining and fostering an understanding and appreciation for academic integrity. In broad terms, this implies protecting the environment of mutual trust within which scholarly exchange occurs, supporting the ability of the faculty to fairly and effectively evaluate every student’s academic achievements, and giving credence to the university’s educational mission, its scholarly objectives and the substance of the degrees it awards. The protection of academic integrity requires there to be clear and consistent standards, as well as confrontation and sanctions when individuals violate those standards. The Colorado School of Mines desires an environment free of any and all forms of academic misconduct and expects students to act with integrity at all times. Academic misconduct is the intentional act of fraud, in which an individual seeks to claim credit for the work and efforts of another without authorization, or uses unauthorized materials or fabricated information in any academic exercise. Student Academic Misconduct arises when a student violates the principle of academic integrity. Such behavior erodes mutual trust, distorts the fair evaluation of academic achievements, violates the ethical code of behavior upon which education and scholarship rest, and undermines the credibility of the university. Because of the serious institutional and individual ramifications, student misconduct arising from violations of academic integrity is not tolerated at Mines. If a student is found to have engaged in such misconduct sanctions such as change of a grade, loss of institutional privileges, or academic suspension or dismissal may be imposed. The complete policy is available at: http://bulletin.mines.edu/policiesandprocedures/
International Business Project:
This project will be conducted in teams of four to five – which you will need to have formed by class #6 (if you have problems forming a team and deciding on a project please come and see me and I will assist you in the process). The primary purpose of this semester long project is to provide you with a strong understanding of how strategic decisions play out in different country contexts.

The project is to conduct an analysis of three firms competing in the same sector/industry that have made a similar internationalization decision (e.g., invested in foreign markets, outsourced production overseas, located international innovation or R&D activities). Identify at least one of these firms as a high performer and one as a low performer with regard to the success of this activity. Make sure to identify how the country context and international activity fit with the firm’s strategy, capabilities, and positioning. Also, be clear in terms of how you identified “success” with this activity. I encourage you to conduct primary research, such as interviews with key personnel, in addition to consulting archival data. The key components of the project are:

(i) Evaluate the economic, political, and legal environment of the country the three companies have entered. Use the Hofstede scales if they cover your country (1-2 pages).
(ii) Prepare a case study for each firm that summarizes the internationalizing decision and identifies the elements of the decision that worked well as well as the key challenges faced (2-3 pages each).
(iii) Identify how country specific factors from (i) above influence the success or challenges in each case (2-3 pages).
(iv) Integrating your findings to provide an analysis of what distinguishes the high vs. low performers and whether these differences are global, meaning they would apply in most country contexts, or local meaning they are the result of understanding or not understanding a specific country context (3-4 pages).

Deliverable:
A written report consisting of parts (i)-(iv) above, i.e., country overview (2 pages), case study overviews (3 at 2-3 pages), country level assessment (2-3 pages), and integrative analysis and conclusions (3-4 pages).
15 minute power point presentation (please submit your power point deck). I recommend no more than 12 slides.

Grading criteria:
- Quality of written report and analysis (12 points)
- Presentation (10 points)
- Peer evaluation (3 points)

Non-performance of a team member:
If one or more of your team members is not participating fully, please let me know. It is important to address any problems as soon as possible. If there is consensus that one or more team member is not doing their fair share of the workload, I will remove them from the team and require him/her to independently complete the assignment. In order to do this in a timely manner, any final decisions on inadequate team performance must be made no later than March 10th.
Class Participation and Attendance:
The class discussion grade is based on quality, not quantity. It is particularly important that you are prepared on the days that we will be conducting a case analysis. While I will provide some questions to guide your analysis, you should be ready to discuss all aspects of the case. The analysis will be the product of our discussions in class. Remember, any student who, in the opinion of the instructor, has not carefully read the assigned case will have his/her participation grade reduced by one letter grade.

After each class period, I evaluate your classroom participation as follows:

3: Outstanding positive engagement in the classroom discussion as evidenced by particularly insightful comments and excellent understanding of concepts covered in the readings for the course.

2: Active, engaged participant in class.

1: Attended class and contributed a little to the class / group discussions and activities.

0: Missed all or a substantial part of the class session.

Attending all classes is essential to your learning in this course. If for some unavoidable reason you must miss a class, please let me know in advance so that your absence will not be unexplained. While it is not possible to “make up” an absence, a brief summary of the case to be discussed the day of your absence should be submitted (2 page maximum). This analysis will be regarded as class participation and will be graded on the same three point scale as class participation, depending on the quality of your analysis. This analysis is due within two days of the class for which you are absent. You may not submit such “analysis in lieu of presence” more than two times.

Also, since quality class participation figures prominently in this course, the Honor Code mandates that you not rely on notes, handouts, or cases from students who have previously taken this course.

Case Update:
For those individuals who would like to supplement their class participation grade you have the option of researching and writing a 2 page (max) report updating one of the cases covered in class. The report is due the class before the case will be covered in class and you will need to sign up with me the week before the case.

Additional Course Information

The Writing Center, located in Stratton 306, is there to help all members of the Mines community with writing projects at any stage of the writing process. Writing Consultants can help you understand an assignment; brainstorm, develop and organize ideas; cite sources; narrow your focus; and/or fine-tune your writing for polish, clarity, adherence to grammatical conventions, etc. To make an appointment, please visit our online scheduling system at: http://mines.mywconline.com.

Please see me during the first two weeks of class if you have a documented disability and need academic adjustments or special accommodations. All discussions will remain confidential.
